Buildout: track record and tear sheet

Model book, not personal positions. Data through 2026-11-05. Research only; not investment advice.

1. Backtest (in-sample)

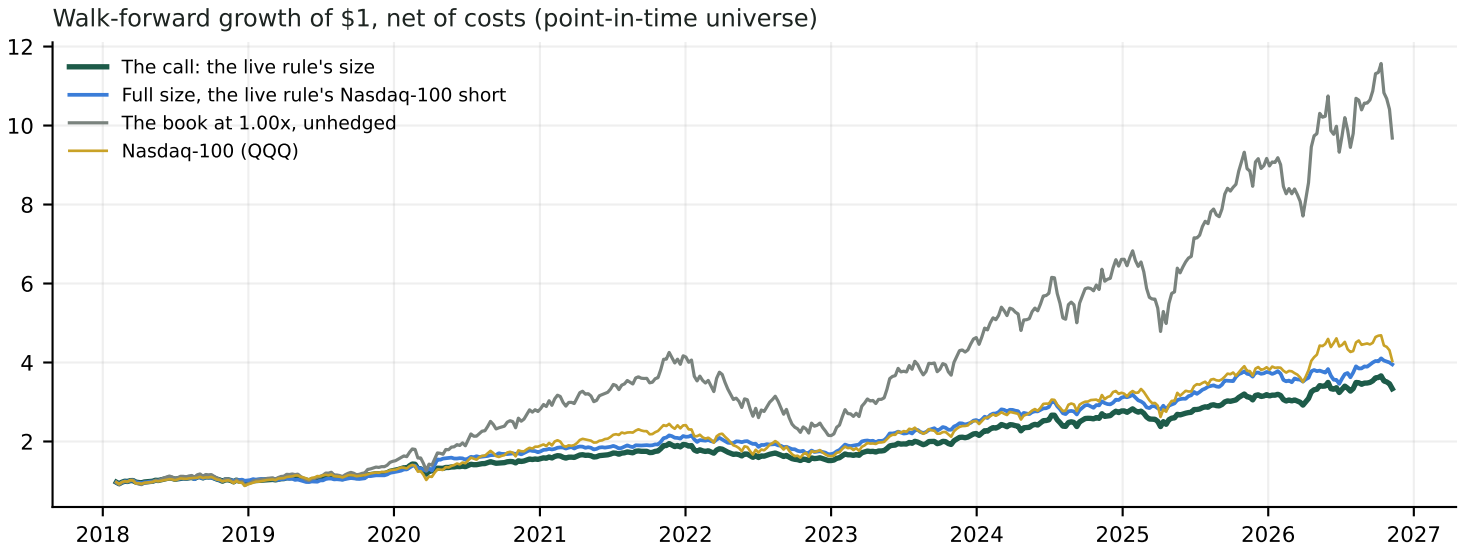

Size 0.53x, chosen with the whole history and applied to it: hindsight on the names and the size. CAGR 18.8%, volatility 16.1%, max drawdown 26.4%.

2. Walk-forward (out-of-sample)

Size and hedge recomputed each month-end from data to that close, held the next month, costs charged; universe chosen point in time each January from a candidate list set in 2026 (a retrospectively selected universe). 2018-02-01 to 2026-11-05.

3. Live paper

9 call(s) in the hash-chained ledger, the first governing from 2026-11-04; 2 days marked.

Restated in v0.42.5: the daily trades that hold the equal weights and the size are counted in turnover and charged, and the hedged policy shorts what the ledger logs (5% steps). Costs: stocks 5 bp per dollar traded; Nasdaq-100 futures 1 bp a trade plus 1 bp a quarter to roll; borrowing above 1.00x at cash plus 50 bp; the long bond 2 bp a trade. Sharpe is in excess of cash; betas from a daily regression on the Nasdaq-100 and the 20-year bond.

Survivorship: today's nine held with hindsight grew 30.2% a year, the point-in-time nine 29.7% (gap 0.6 points); hindsight flatters risk more than return (worst drawdown 47% against 52%).

The call is sized by the live rule at every month-end (v0.40). It cut the worst drawdown from 52% to 23% at a Sharpe of 0.77 against 0.88 for holding; full size with its short earned 0.93. Vol target with quarter Kelly averaged 0.21x gross: the same bet, smaller.
